OLD SERIES--VOL. XXV.

LOUISVILLE, SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 8, 1869.

NEW SERIES--VOL. I, NO. 18.

THE CITY.

Advertisers' Take Notice.
Remember that the EXPRESS is the only English paper on Monday. It is a capital advertising medium.

Open Until Ten O'clock.
To accommodate advertisers, our counting-room will be open until 10 o'clock Saturday and Sunday nights.

Mad.
We saw a mad dog this morning. He was a wild mad. His master was whipping him to make him lie down—enough to make any dog mad.

Crowded Out.
Owing to the pressure upon our advertising columns for the past few days, interesting news matter and communications have been unavoidably crowded out.

A Very Small Fight.
We saw two little urchins, each probably six or seven years old, pounding each other in a savage manner, on Grayson street. They ought to have been taken home and spanked.

The New Jail.
The work on the new jail is going ahead slow but sure. The work being done is executed in first-class style satisfactorily, and when the building is complete, it will be the best jail in this section.

Disappointed.
A great many persons went to Weisiger Hall, last night, to see Fred Wilson's minstrels. It is hardly necessary to say that they didn't see "em. The proprietors of the United States Hotel also wanted to see the minstrels—to get a little bill liquidated.

Quit.
By a private letter we learn that Johnny Allen, the well-known burnt cork comedian, has withdrawn from the firm of Emerson, Allen & Manning's minstrels. Johnny will now go into partnership with Sam Sharpley in the minstrel business. They will make a lively team, these two.

A Nice Donation.
Messrs. Wolf & Durringer donated a beautiful solid silver goblet last night at Glover's skating rink, to be won by the best wheelman. Some smart running was done, and we congratulate the lucky person who carried off the goblet.

Orders for the Express.
Persons wishing the EXPRESS delivered will apply to the carriers or send their orders to our counting-room, No. 112 Jefferson street. Our paper is supplied to subscribers (Monday morning edition included) for the low price of 15 CENTS PER WEEK, OR 75 CENTS PER MONTH.

Notice.
Mr. Watson has taken charge of the delivery of the EXPRESS south of Green street and west of Tenth, and Mr. Sale south of Walnut and east of Preston. Subscribers in these districts who have not received their papers regularly of late will have the same corrected by reporting to the above carriers or at our counting-room.

The Circus.
The circus is coming—Forepaugh's—and his menagerie, which combined presents the biggest and best show on the continent. So the professionals say, so the newspapers say, and the people confirm it by the patronage extended to it. The Frankfort papers declare the men, women and children were half crazy over the show. Great is Forepaugh, and the circus is his profit.

Disgraceful.
Night before last, at a late hour, a large party of colored scamps paraded on Eleventh and Twelfth streets, making the night hideous with their terrific yells, and disturbing the peace generally. The negroes, it is said, were not satisfied with waking up everybody in the locality, but tore a large number of gates from their hinges, and committed other depredations. The gates in front of negro shanties, however, were not molested.

June Bugs—A Pair.
A young man who had been to a cheap jewelry store in town was examining a pair of sleeve-buttons he purchased there, this morning. They had been represented as being set with imitation June bugs, the bugs said to be composed of precious stones. He gave the buttons a too severe inspection, when the bugs fell out. On further examination, they were found to be real, genuine dead June bugs, which fell to pieces upon being handled. A real Yankee trick.

The Rink.
The carnival and tournament of velocipedes at Glover's Skating Rink last night was a hit. The following are the names of the winners of the prizes: Mr. Thos. Todd, fancy riding, silver cup. Mr. Graham, slow riding, silver cream pitcher; the same gentleman also carried off the handsome goblet awarded by Wolf & Durringer, for tournament exercises. There will be some extra performances at the Rink to-night. The trained elephant Eva will appear on skates.

Our Late U. S. Marshal.
The government advertisements in another column of seizures of property which is to be sold, closes up the business of the late U. S. Marshal with the government. Perhaps no officer, so staunch an adherent of party, ever commanded more respect from his political opponents than Wm. A. Meriwether, the late incumbent. He has more Democratic friends than Republicans, but only because there are more Democrats here. The secret of Meriwether's official and personal popularity was, he didn't mix politics with business. They don't mix well. Let others follow so good an example.

Mysterious Disappearance.

Nathan Gallagher, one of the laborers on the bridge over the falls, has been missing since last Saturday, and no satisfactory account has been given of his disappearance. On Saturday last, after voting at the Constable's election, he went in a skiff, in company with John Gawan, a fellow-laborer, and some others, to the bridge and resumed work. He is said not to have been drinking, but in his usual good mind. We are told Mr. Gawan reports that he saw Gallagher at work on about No. 13 or 14 just before work ceased in the evening. These abutments are well out toward the Indiana shore, and can only be approached or left by the tug steamer which the bridge company furnishes to transport the workmen to and from work on the bridge. Something he was seen on board of the boat returning from work in the evening; others think he was not on board. None, however, profess to have seen him after the boat landed. He did not come home, and neither his wife nor any of his relatives have been able to obtain any further information of him than as above given. Those who know him think it not possible that he could have left his family and voluntarily gone off. There seems every reason to warrant the supposition that he has gone to a watery grave. It is said some of the hands at work on the bridge saw a corpse floating over the falls on Monday last. This seems a confirmation of the supposition. But the mystery is, how any such accident could have befallen him while in company with so many fellow-workmen, and none of them have observed it. The matter should be looked into by our authorities.

The matter has been placed in the hands of the police for investigation.

The Nestorian Presbyter.

This reverend gentleman will preach to-morrow morning in Chestnut-street Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. McKee, pastor, and in the evening in Walnut-street M. E. Church, Rev. Wm. Morrison, pastor. Subject—"The sufferings and persecutions of the Christians in Turkey." We are pleased to learn that the lectures to be delivered in aid of this cause at Weisiger Hall on May 24th and 25th will prove a success, from the fact that on last Sabbath the people of the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. Wilson, pastor, have taken $200 worth of tickets, and the people of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Spalding, pastor, $87 worth of tickets. The cause is a good one and we doubt not it will meet with most generous success. Mr. Bogdan is officially authorized by the Greek Government to solicit aid in behalf of the Cretans.

Health of the City.

A member of the Board of Health informs us that there is still considerable small-pox in the city, but the epidemic is confined in most part to the negro localities, and is of a mild character. The Sanitary Inspectors are now preparing a list of alleys and streets which need immediate renovation. The list is already long, and by it we readily perceive that there are many very filthy places in the city. All paved alleys will be kept clean by the city, but those unpaved must be cleaned by citizens. Let all citizens living near filthy alleys make a note of this, and save being compelled to do the work by an official, which will surely be done soon, if such alleys are not renovated at once.

Ole Bull.

By an advertisement in today's EXPRESS it will be seen that Ole Bull, the great, immense, the unapproachable, will on next Friday evening give one of his select entertainments at Weisiger Hall. Ole Bull will be assisted by the following renowned artists: Miss S. W. Barton, prima donna soprano; Wm. McDonald, tenor; Theodore Martens, pianist and accompanist, from the Leipzig Conservatory of Music. The price of admission has been fixed at one dollar. Seats may be secured at D. P. Faulds' music store on and after Wednesday. Our lovers are all acquainted with the merits of Ole Bull, and comment is unnecessary on our part.

West End Cemetery.

The new walls around the old cemetery between Jefferson and Green and Eleventh and Twelfth streets, have been fairly commenced. This is an improvement long needed, and we are glad to see the work going ahead. The old cemetery contains the dust of some of the most honored pioneer citizens of Louisville, and it should be a place dear to every citizen of Louisville. We are also glad to see that the beautiful shade trees have been little injured in making the new walls. This shady bowler will be a pleasant retreat during the coming hot days, and in fact, the only large green spot in the central part of the city.

A Pocket Picked.

The entertainment at Glover's Hall last night drew a "big house," in play parlance, and everybody was delighted. Glover was delighted, too, with this success; for the proceeds were nearly two hundred dollars. An after act, however, wasn't so gratifying. He had stowed away the receipts for the night in his pocket, carefully, as he thought, but in the rush and crush of the crowd going out, some rascal picked Mr. Glover's pocket, relieving him of the entire amount. There will be given another entertainment at the hall to-night, when the aforesaid rascal will have another chance to make a raise. Don't he wish he may make it?

Pool Selling for the Races.

We are requested to state that there will be pool selling for Monday's race to-night at the Galt House.

Court of Common Pleas.

The only cases containing anything of public interest before this tribunal to-day were those of Jacob Cassell vs. George C. Shadburne et al., and that of Lewis Landau vs. George C. Shadburne et al. Both cases were the same in nature and material facts. The plaintiffs had endeavored to have their cases decided before the Common Pleas Court instead of the City Court, and motions were made to this effect. Judge Sutes, after hearing the pleadings in both cases, decided to let the whole matter proceed before the City Court, where it commenced. The plaintiffs bring suit for the recovery of certain faro boxes, "pieces of ivory" (chips), and other implements used in the game of faro, the same having been seized by George C. Shadburne and others. The defendants claimed that they had authority to seize the said property, it being used by plaintiffs for carrying on a game or games of chance; that the said plaintiffs had set up and used said implements for the purpose of enticing and luring persons to play at said game or games of chance, and that by the laws of the Commonwealth they had a right to seize said property with or without a warrant. The court decided that the plaintiffs give bonds in amount double the value of the property seized, in order to allow the plaintiffs to retain the said property in their possession.

Both cases were referred back to the City Court, where they will probably have on examination Monday morning.

Commercial Convention.

We are advised by a circular from the Chamber of Commerce of New Orleans that a Commercial Convention will be held on the 24th inst. in that city, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, to consider the promptest and most efficacious means of removing the obstructions at the mouth of the Mississippi river, the improvement of the navigation of the Southern and Western rivers, and to confer fully on all matters touching the common interests of the South, West and Northwest.

Invitations have been extended to the various boards of trade, whose co-operation is solicited, and it is suggested that each chamber of commerce or board of trade will appoint two delegates for every one hundred members or fractional hundred. That each city or town will appoint four delegates for a population of five thousand or less, and two for each additional five thousand or fraction thereof.

Work on Sixth Street.

The Street Inspector is doing very valuable service on Sixth street to-day. The sewer along that street has for some time been stopped up by thick and thin floods of mud and filth. This morning an immense hole was dug in front of the Police Court building for the purpose of reaching the sewer, which will be thoroughly cleaned and cleared of all obstructions. A tremendous amount of slush was carted off of Sixth street this morning, and the conglomeration of filth sent up a stench sufficient to make pedestrians give the carts a wide berth.

Mrs. O'Donovan Rossa's Reading.

This lady is announced to give a reading and recitation at Weisiger Hall Thursday night next. She is the wife of an Irish patriot, who fell a victim to English tyranny. She is a lady of intellect, refinement and culture, and merits high consideration. Wherever she has been, North and South, she has met with a cordial welcome. For her sake, for her husband's sake and for old Ireland's sake, let her meet a glad greeting here.

Col. R. K. White's Card.

Col. R. K. White has consented to become a candidate for re-election to the Legislature. His card in response to the call made upon him will be found in another column. Col. White is one of our oldest citizens. His integrity as a man and his ability and fidelity as a legislator are alike unquestioned. His record is without a stain. Louisville can confide her interests to no truer, better man.

Ohio River Bridge.

This magnificent structure, in course of construction across the falls at this city, will be completed some time in September. The work, it will be remembered, has passed from the hands of the original contractors, and is now under the supervision of Col. Albert Fink, the famous engineer, from whom we obtain this gratifying information.

Old-Fashioned Charivari.

The slumbering populace of "down town," last night about midnight, were startled by the hideous clatter of tin-pans, horns, drums, kettles, cow-bells and sounding cymbals, produced by a choice collection of depraved humanity. The occasion of the demonstration was the marriage of two well-known parties of Market street.

The Races Monday.

The races will be inaugurated over Greenland Course on Monday. There is a promise of fine weather, a splendid track, fast horses, and big purses. Who will not go to the races? There's fun ahead. The entries for the four mile dash will close to-night at Charley Ruffer's Hotel, Fifth street.

Blind Tom.

That great genius and wonder of the musical world, "Blind Tom," reappears here Monday, after a long absence. The mere announcement is enough to fill the hall. He is a prodigy, and the like of him has never been seen before.

Kentucky Items.

—A. Gay has sold his farm of 172 acres, two miles from Frankfort, for $65 per acre. —The assessment of Fayette county for this year is fifteen million five hundred thousand dollars—an increase of nearly a half million since last year.

—John Newman, in a fit of delirium, attempted to kill his brother-in-law in Versailles the other day, and subsequently tried suicide by hanging himself. He was cut down before life was extinct.

—A convention of delegates from the various counties upon the line of the Lexington and Big Sandy railroad will assemble in Lexington on the 12th inst., to take into consideration the most available means by which this great enterprise may be prosecuted to a successful completion.

—As the season is a little backward, the Bourbon county farmers are pushing their work with great energy. An unusually large quantity of corn will be planted this season. Not much wheat in the country, but the prospect very fine. The chance for fruits is also good. The blue-grass is a little better, but it is growing finely.

—The Frankfort Yeoman learns from a correspondent that, on the 1st inst., while the election for constable was being held at Gratz, Owen county, a shooting affray took place at the grocery of J. B. Roberts, in which James Roberts and Mort. Penny were wounded. Some twenty shots were fired in all, and there seems to have been a general run, in which whisky, Spencer rifles and navy revolvers figured prominently. It is not stated whether the wounds were serious or not.

New Books.

REMINISCENCES OF FELIX MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY. A Social and Artistic Biography. By Elise Polko. Translated from the German by Lady Wallace, with additional letters addressed to English Correspondents. Published by Leopold Holt.

This little volume is replete with anecdotes of the great composer and musical director, which will be read with interest by all admirers of the musical genius of our age. For sale by Henry Knoefel, Book Dealer, Market street, four doors above Third street.

BLACKBERRY VILLAGE STORIES. By Berthold Auerbach. Translated by George Koepf. Author's Edition Illustrated with facsimiles of the original German woodcuts. Published by Leopold Holt, New York, 1869.

This volume, full of illustrations, is a graphic series of short stories of German life peace and war, and the interest is kept up from the first page to the last story. Mr. Knoefel, Market street, also has this volume for sale.

The Boat Race.

Great excitement exists among the boating and rowing fraternity at the levee as we write—2 p. m. Great crowds have assembled along the river in front of the city, and betting is going on at a high and lively rate. The boats start from the foot of Fourth street at precisely 4 o'clock. A large amount of money will change hands in the contest, and while we admire the pluck, speed and perseverance of the New Albany boys, we should be glad to see the Louisville crew carry off the purse of $500. Both crews are in excellent condition, and all who witness the race will see some lively boating.

The West End.

The west end of the city had a night of silence and undisturbed repose last night. The bunnies are out of money and have lost all "trust," and the chicken thieves in Portland have got all the chickens there were to steal, and quiet remains very supreme in the West End.

The Stationhouses.

The stationhouses were all doing a very dull business this morning. The keepers had little else to do but sun themselves in front of their castles and smoke their meerschaums. They all had an abundance of what Grant wants, but is not apt to get.

TOWN TOPICS.

Money Loaned.
Mr. C. Hagan advertises, in city items, to loan money on diamonds, silver plate and other valuables.

A Card from Col. R. K. White.
For the Evening Express.
To the voters of the Sixth Legislative District, comprising the Eighth and Ninth wards:

In response to the flattering calls made upon me through the public press, and at the earnest solicitation of many friends, I consent to become a candidate for re-election to the House of Representatives for the ensuing term.

I can only promise, if elected, to discharge, to the best of my ability, the duties incumbent upon me, fearlessly and honestly. It shall be my endeavor at all times to protect the interests and rights of my constituency, and to advance not only the local interests of the district, but the more general interests of the city and State. I shall favor all wise and prudent measures of a public or private character, affecting the State or the citizen, and shall sanction all public improvement and private enterprises which have for their object the development of the resources and wealth of the State and the enhancement of individual property. And as an earnest for the future, I refer to my past career as your representative. In this connection permit me to say that the rumors busily circulated throughout the district, to the effect that I had declined to become a candidate for re-election are without foundation and wholly unauthorized by myself.

Should you choose to again honor me with your suffrages and sanction my previous course by returning me to the Legislature, the compliment will be properly appreciated.

Your obedient servant,
R. K. WHITE.

THE COURTS.

Louisville City Court.

MON. E. S. CRAIG, JUDGE.

Sam Fleming, drunk and disorderly; postponed till Monday.

A. Mann, disorderly conduct; discharged.

J. C. Posters was sworn in as attorney at the bar.

J. R. Phillips, drunk; examination waived; fined $3.

Bridget Hawkins, assault and battery on E. Reynolds; $100 to keep the peace.

Orlando Warner, suspected felon; $100 to be of good behavior for thirty days.

Bizzie Sullivan, drunkenness; fined $3.

Boyd $100 for three months.

The case of assault and battery of M. Marks on H. Sales postponed until Monday.

Dr. Richards, (not Dan.), drunk and disorderly; fined $3, with costs.

Julia Brannon, stealing a bonnet and being drunk; fined $3 and bond for $100 for 60 days.

Mary Bass, drunk and disorderly. No witnesses—discharged.

Caroline Wilson, drunk and disorderly; fined $3, and bonds in $100 for sixty days.

Gives Livingston, drunk and disorderly; fined $3, and bonds in $100 for thirty days.

Beaver and F. Gross, drunk and disorderly. Young says, just leaving the starting point in life, had taken the wrong chute, and were delayed at the police station. In view of their scant experience in such matters the Judge spared the rod and dismissed them.

J. Phillips, drunk and disorderly; fined $3.

J. Madison, a youth of twenty summers, without a vestige of filial affection in his infamous compound was sentenced to pay a fine of $3, with bonds of $200 to the master of the house.

The master of the house, against him, and complained that he had been in the habit of ill-treating her for months, and she had taken this course as a last resort.

P. Jordan, disorderly conduct; fined $3; bonds given for $100 to behave for 30 days.

Clear Leslie, obtaining horse and buggy under false pretenses of Mr. Fields; gave bonds in $200 for good behavior for six months. He was on a drunken frolic.

Louisville and the Nicolson Patent.

To the Editor of the Evening Express:

A communication in the Courier-Journal about Thursday about the necessity of the improvement of our streets meets the approval of all classes of our citizens. The condition of our thoroughfares is, as the writer truly observes, "simply disgraceful." This the members of the General Council feel in common with others. They hesitate to act, however, probably under some fear of "taking the responsibility. Taxation is onerous doubtless; and the idea of retrenchment prevails generally. But if the people are soberly interrogated, the members of the Council will find that they know the difference between retrenchment and wise economy. The latter requires the spending of money for substantial improvements. The people would merely rebuke the squandering of money into pockets that do not earn it, and thereby economy for good work in the interests of the whole community and the city's growth, health and reputation.

In the laying of pavements the best work should be secured. A spasm of unwise economy in the start is sure to end in increased extravagance. That the Nicolson pavement should be extensively laid, and well laid, this summer is the conviction of a very large majority of our property holders who have no immediate or prospective interest in any other sort of pavement. That this is so is proved by the fact that through a number of long squares in the city the residents are themselves willing to pay directly a large proportion of the expense.

Agreeing with the writer alluded to, that it is no time for Louisville to speculate upon different kinds of pavements, but has the experience of other cities and the Council may be assured of the support of the people in issuing the bonds of the city or otherwise contracting for the very best work and best security in the Nicolson pavement. Perhaps it may be best to release some facts as to the cost of the Nicolson, its desirability, its advantages, in order to refresh the ideas of our councilors and the people. This may be done very briefly in a few numbers of your paper, if permitted. Knowing no parties wishing contracts and having nothing but the interest and progress of the city at heart, the matter is alluded to only from the inspiration of a TAX-PAYER.

HYMENIAL.

Marriage of the Danish Minister.

From the New York Mail.

M. de Bille, Minister Plenipotentiary from Denmark, was married at noon yesterday to Miss S. Zabriske of Jersey City, daughter of Chancellor Zabriske. The ceremony was performed in the First Presbyterian Church, Jersey City, by the Rev. George H. Peck in the presence of a distinguished party including Bishop Potter, Rev. Dr. Campbell, President of Rutgers college; ex-Senator Frelinghuysen, Judge Bedle, and Mr. Pennington of Newark. The party drove from the church to the residence of the bride's father, No. 13 Sussex place, where a sumptuous dinner was prepared.

Sharpshooting.

Don Platt, in one of his letters to the Cincinnati Commercial, says: When a Senator gets drunk, the State he represents is disgraced. It is the State that is intoxicated. To this the Cleveland Plaindealer adds: If he be true, Michigan and Illinois may soon be expected to have an attack of delirium tremens.

The Detroit Free Press thus responds: There is no immediate danger of this, however, for Senators, like other men, must abstain for a few hours before they become subject to that terrible disorder.

If that is not sharpshooting at radicalism, what is it? The Michigan Senator is Chandler; that of Illinois Yates. Their normal condition is well put.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

In Cleveland, on Wednesday, Robert Connell was arrested in company with Mrs. Kate Lucret, and they were sent to jail. The pair had eloped from Dayton a few days before. Connell leaving behind a wife and several children. The woman left a husband, George Lucret, an employer of the Hamilton and Dayton railroad, but has no children. She helped herself before starting to all of George's loose change, sold furniture to raise more, and took $50 belonging to her husband's sister. The arrest was made on complaint of a deserted Mr. Connell, who followed the runaway.—Cincinnati Chronicle.

The Revolution in Cuba—A Regular Government Formed.

From the N. Y. Sun.

The unusual importance of the news from Cuba, which we have published, cannot have escaped the observation of our attentive readers. A congress of representatives from all districts of the island has assembled at Sibanicum. It has established a civil administration, with Don Carlos Manuel de Cespedes at its head. It has also provided for a military organization, with General Quesada as the commander-in-chief; and it has declared the purpose of the revolution to be the achievement of entire independence of the Spanish Government, and the ultimate admission of Cuba as a State of the American Union. All previous decrees of the provisional revolutionary authorities, including the great act of the abolition of slavery, we understand to be fully confirmed and ratified by this congress.

With this event the revolution passes from the condition of a series of scattered and more or less disconnected risings into a unitary and comprehensive movement. The fear which has prevailed in the minds of many intelligent Cubans that the union of civil and military authority in the hands of a single leader, however patriotic and competent, might produce unfortunate results, will now be removed; and Gen. Cespedes will be regarded as having established a new claim to the confidence of the countrymen from the promptness and cordiality with which he has indicated the functions of a soldier to devote himself to the work of political organization and civil control. For this he is prepared by an extensive experience as a lawyer and a man of business, and a thorough acquaintance with the wants and character of every part of the population.

The new Commander-in-Chief, a Cuban by birth, and under forty years of age, has had a long military training in the military service of Mexico. He has displayed there a remarkable aptitude as a leader of partisan warfare, and the skill and success with which he has directed the operations of his undisciplined followers in Cuba, attacking the Spanish veterans with raw troops, armed mainly with the machete, a weapon similar to a butcher's cleaver, afforded him evidence of his capacity for the larger duties now devolved upon him.

Sibanicum, the seat of the new government, is an obscure hamlet near the eastern boundary of Camaguey, some forty or fifty miles from Puerto Principe, on the road to Tunas. It is surrounded by dense woods, and the approaches to it have been fortified in such a manner that the Spanish forces will find it both difficult and dangerous to advance in that direction. If, however, by a great effort, during the summer, they succeed in reaching it, their hand-worn victory will be worthless to them; and the revolutionary government will find it a capital quite as convenient and quite as inexpensive in any one of fifty other places.

Suicide in Cleveland, Ohio.

From the Plaindealer, 6th.

Last Monday Officer Givens, on duty at the A. and G. W. railway depot, picked up an insane man, who gave his name as Adam Goeths, and brought him to the police stationhouse. It was evident from the appearance of the man that he was insane. He claimed to have lost about $800 or $900, and stated that parties had been sent out by his wife to kill him. He was from Detroit, where, from all that can be learned, he once resided on Thompson street. Judging from his appearance, he was a man of rough, brutal-like proclivities, and the facts that have come to light since his death confirm that theory. It appears that he treacher his wife, who was overcome in such a cruel way as to cause premature illness. When she recovered sufficiently to travel, she went to her father's house, at Columbus, Mississippi, deserting her husband entirely. Since her departure he has become deranged, and left Detroit only a short time ago with $800 and $900 upon his person. When arrested, he claimed that that amount had been consumed in telegraphing for information, and more of it will be appropriated toward defraying funeral expenses. Although insane, the prison officials did not believe he would commit suicide.

The act was perpetrated sometime during Wednesday night, by the aid of a suspender in his cell. During the early part of the evening, a woman, who had eloped from Dayton with a married man, was arrested and locked up in the female department. She heard bitterly over her position, and Goeths heard her cries. He insisted that it was his wife, and was deeply troubled over the matter. It is supposed that this crying brought up old recollections with redoubled power, causing him to seek relief from the horrible past, in death.

SELF-MURDER.

Suicide of a Citizen of Glasgow.

From the Glasgow Times, 6th.

On last Thursday evening the community was shocked by the report of the suicide of Geo. W. Trubue, Jr. The deceased, owing to some domestic trouble, for a few days past, had been drinking freely and at the time of the act of self-destruction was doubtless laboring under a partial derangement, produced by intemperance.

Shortly before four o'clock on the evening in question, he attempted to shoot himself with a Smith and Wesson revolver at Melvin's carriage shop. Mr. Melvin and others interfered, took the pistol from him and drew the cartridges out, before giving it back. He left the carriage shop between four and five o'clock, and having procured more cartridges, seated himself upon a pile of lumber on Main cross street, near Reynolds' factory, where he proceeded to reload the pistol. Having finished loading, he took down the aim at his head, and fired. The first shot missed, but the second entering the head, performed effectually its deadly mission. Mr. Reynolds discovered him while in the act of shooting, but was too late to arrest the fatal deed.
